Error analysis in SLA was established in the 1960s by Corder and colleagues. Error analysis (EA) was an alternative to contrastive analysis, an approach influenced by behaviorism through which applied linguists sought to use the formal distinctions between the learners' first and second languages to predict errors.

Error analysis (linguistics) - Wikipedia

A Lectureship and Department of Applied Linguistics was established under Stephen Pit Corder (1918-1990) in 1964. In 1969, this merged with the Department of Phonetics and Linguistics to become the Department of Linguistics. In 1986, Applied Linguistics again became a separate department, and a Chair of Advanced Linguistics was established in 1995.
